Elder Resource Association South of the River

Elder Resource Association (ERA) is a group of professionals in the South of the River market dedicated to improving the lives of seniors. We meet regularly to network and find ways to better serve our community. This guide features senior related services in cities south of the river like: Apple Valley, Burnsville, Eagan, Farmington, Lakeville, Prior Lake, Savage, and others.

This is a collaborative effort to provide a comprehensive collection of the services available to seniors and their families. Please note, this is not an all-inclusive listing of providers. ERA does not endorse any particular persons, agencies, facilities, etc.

Elder Resource Association—South of the River members are listed in the front and noted with a  by their name. We can also be found at www.erasouth.org and as Elder Resource Association MN on Facebook.

Home Care

Home care agencies provide care wherever a person calls home: the home they own, an apartment, a relative's home, independent living, group home or assisted living. Home Care Services can be arranged for as little as a few hours a week to as much as 24-hour care. Live-in caregivers are also an option.

Some in-home care services may be covered by Medicare, veteran's benefits, long-term care insurance or other insurances such as supplemental health insurance, worker's compensation or even auto liability insurance. These services can consist of physical therapy, speech pathology, skilled nursing, occupational therapy, home health aide, and/or social work.

The purpose of Medicare-covered services is to teach and train the patient and/or their caregiver(s) on activities that will allow them to live independently in their home. The activities focused on usually relate to: living with a new diagnosis, assessing for home safety, teaching exercises to improve strength due to illness or surgery, teaching about new medications or diet, and assisting with tasks such as bathing, wound care or changing of bed linens. Once the established goals are reached or you plateau and it is determined that teaching, training, and rehabilitation are complete, the services, covered by insurance, will end. These services are often combined with privately paid home care as a supplement.

Non Medicare covered services are personalized to the individual needs, ranging from simple assistance around the home all the way through end-of-life care at home. Services can include help with activities such as: preparing healthy meals, housekeeping, bathing and personal care, medication, transportation, running errands, and social outings. Services also can include general supervision for memory care and companionship.

A home care provider is any entity that regularly engages in the delivery of home care for a fee. At least one home care service must be provided directly, although additional home care services may be provided by contractual arrangements.

A home care provider must have a current license to operate in the state. Minnesota has two types of home care licenses. The license a home care provider holds depends on the types of services offered. In Minnesota, home care licenses are either basic or comprehensive.

Basic Home Care Licensure per the Minnesota Department of Health is defined as: providing assistance with dressing, self-feeding, oral hygiene, hair care, grooming, toileting, and bathing, providing standby assistance within arm's reach for safety while performing daily activities, providing verbal or visual reminders to take regularly scheduled medication, providing verbal or visual reminders to the client to perform regularly scheduled treatments and exercises, preparing modified diets ordered by a licensed health professional and laundry, housekeeping and other household chores including meal preparation and shopping.

Comprehensive Licensing includes all of the Basic licensed services plus: Advanced Practice Nurse services, Registered Nurse services, Licensed Practical Nurse services, Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy, Speech Language Pathologist services, Respiratory Therapy, Social Work services, Services by a dietitian or nutritionist, complex and specialty healthcare, medication management, delegated tasks to unlicensed personnel and hands-on assistance with transfers and mobility and providing eating assistance for clients with complicating eating problems.

When gathering information on home care providers, it is important to determine if they are licensed, bonded and insured. Generally, an assessment will be done to determine services and eligibility of coverage. Check with providers to determine the details specific to your situation, the services that they can provide, the licensure they carry and the coverage available.

Hospice Care

Hospice care is specialized care at the end of life. The goal of hospice is to help those with a terminal illness live their final time in comfort and dignity in whatever setting is most appropriate – a private home, a long term care facility, assisted living community or other long term care alternatives or in a residential hospice setting. # Housing

There is a multitude of senior living options. Choosing the right one for you or a loved one depends on needs and personal preferences. Here is a short summary of options generally available in all areas. Please note that in some cases, facilities may go by other names depending on state specific rules as well as provider preferences so by all means, ask when you visit.

INDEPENDENT LIVING

An independent living community is typically a multi-unit senior housing development that provides full apartment style living. Independent living communities may also offer supportive services such as meals, housekeeping, social activities, and transportation. Some names these communities go by include senior housing, cooperatives, condominiums, and subsidized housing.

ASSISTED LIVING

Assisted living facilities are for people needing assistance with Activities of Daily Living (ADLs) but wishing to live as independently as possible for as long as possible. Assisted living can be found in community or residential settings. Assisted living exists to bridge the gap between independent living and nursing homes. Residents in assisted living are not able to live by themselves but do not require constant care either.

Assisted living facilities offer help with activities such as eating, bathing, dressing, laundry, housekeeping, and assistance with medications. Assisted living is not necessarily an alternative to a nursing home, however some assisted living communities offer care suites. Care suites are generally a designated area specializing in higher levels of care. Each assisted living community offers an assessment prior to move in to determine appropriate level of care.

MEMORY CARE AND ALZHEIMER'S CARE

Certain assisted living facilities offer specialized environments for those with cognitive impairment. The environments offered are designed for safety, comfort and familiarity. All staff are specially trained to work with people who have memory loss.

LONG TERM & TRANSITIONAL CARE

A nursing home is a long-term care facility licensed by the state. Nursing homes offer room and board and health care services, including basic and skilled nursing care, rehabilitation, and a full range of other therapies, treatments, and programs. Residents of nursing centers require regular health monitoring and ongoing rather than intermittent nursing care. Some nursing facilities have designated units that serve individuals who require more acute or specialized services such as rehabilitation.

RESPIRE CARE

Respite care can provide short-term or temporary assistance ranging from a few hours per day up to several weeks depending on the need. The goal is to provide relief, or respite, to the regular caregiver, usually a family member. Most assisted living and skilled nursing communities will provide respite options if accommodations are available. Home care agencies may also be able to provide similar services in the home.
